Manager's moment...

Good morning everyone and welcome to market day!!

I hope you all had a good week, you know it's quite a challenge sometimes to come up with interesting items for the newsletter, so if any of you have suggestions/articles/news, please let me know, always grateful for your assistance!

Our TV advertising is due to start again; we have 35 slots over the next 2 weeks during the Olympic Games, after that we will switch to a local Win station; is everyone as confused as the rest of Canberra as to which channel is which these days??

I don't want to be too presumptive, but I think I can detect a hint of spring in the air – let's hope, I'm done with winter this year.

Being the first Saturday of the month Ivonne is in the house and cooking up some great recipes, thanks to those who donate.

Just sewing the seed for now as I know it's a little early, but due to the enormous success of the Snowy Hydro Gala Ball held in the market shed last year, they are planning a re-run, the event will be held on Friday 2nd December, the same opportunities for you to be involved, should you choose to do so, will be available again, they (SHSC) are open to suggestions/ideas for improvements on last year, I have already highlighted a few from my observations at the previous event.

I think that covers me for this week, have a good one 😊

Stallholder update: Missing in action this week are: John – Ingelara Garlic, Jean & Eric Tipping – Wildflowers and Mayil – Crème n Sugar; Gozleme's return has been postponed to next week; joining us for the first time is Pat – Nonna Maria's Pasta (site 101 for now) be sure to say G'day, and sadly it's the last market today for Dean – Dean's Market Ramen, who now has to work on a Saturday morning but hopes to return in the new year.

Engine's running...

It was mentioned to me last week that a lot of engines are left running in the shed as you all move in and unload in the morning. Perhaps, in the interest of minimising the carbon footprint, it would be considerate to switch off, especially if you find yourself waiting/queuing to get to your spot whilst someone else unloads their vehicle. Let's try to keep the air we breathe as fresh and clean as the clean/fresh produce we are known for!! Thank you for your consideration.

EFT Payments...

Just a quick reminder that your EFT payment should be received into our bank by COB on the Thursday prior to market day; I know you're all busy people but payment is important – we don't enjoy chasing you for money. Tie a knot in something to remind you!! Thank you for your assistance. 😊

CRFM Signage Reminder...

Please be sure to use the Producer (Green Chook), Agent (Orange Chook) and Organic/Biodynamic (Burgundy Chook) on applicable items so our customers know your product.

More Winners...

Gary & Michele – Shoalhaven Mushrooms were awarded the following at the Hobart Fine Food Awards:

Fantastic results and huge congratulations from us all at CRFM.

Get to know your Committee...

This year we have 2 new members on the committee whose faces you may have seen already; John Kenworthy and Keith Hodgins. Over the next couple of weeks, I'll do a brief overview of our two new members so you will recognise them.

As a public servant Keith was involved in administration, HR and Training & Development. A major career highlight was successfully running a Management Development program for 4 years from 1989. After leaving the Public Service in 1998 Keith qualified as a TAFE teacher with a Graduate Diploma in Human Resource Development. From a year of teaching at CIT he then managed Development programs for the Taxation Office and Department of Industry and Tourism. His final assignment was research and policy work with the Public Service Commission. Keith has been a Rotarian for 2 - 3 years and joined the CRFM committee in June 2015.
